Second Annual H.E.C. Homecoming

By Aileen Ludington, M.D.

"When my group got here we were all worrying about ourselves. As soon as we began worrying about our neighbor in the next room, we started to get better," said Ben Zwanzig, class of Jan. 1980. These words seemed to epitomize the Weimar experience, one of caring, loving and sharing. They set the tone that persisted throughout the 2nd Annual Alumni Homecoming weekend, May 2-4, 1980.

"How good it is to see the 'children' back again! In so many ways I feel closer to our Weimar family than to some of my own relatives," Dr. George Chen, Health Education Center Medical Director, told us on opening night.

"The thing that's special about this place is that each life, no matter how old, or battered, or hopeless is valued as something very precious," Nancy Williams, wife of an alumnus.

"When it seems that there is just no one, anywhere, that cares at all," reflected Lucille Marks, "returning to Weimar restores my faith."

"We just can't be islands to ourselves; we need the help of others. And this is what we find here at Weimar," said another alumnus.

"God knows we need each other, that's why He gave us sharing," Dr. Jay Neil said it for us all.

How fitting, then, that one alumnus from Oregon should put it this way; "At Weimar I learned what God was really like."

PICK-ME-UPS:

Of the approximately 90 alumni and guests that gathered for this second annual homecoming, no one, it seemed, would claim an unqualified 100% success at applying the program at home.

However, many helpful hints surfaced: "When I get discouraged over trying to stay on the program, I take a walk through a nursing home. Within 10 minutes I can't wait to get back to it!" says Dr. Sherman DeVine.

"When we got home, we were so excited that we gave everyone Weimar cookbooks for Christmas presents. But no one wanted them, and gave them back. A year later, all those people wanted them." Bill Reynolds.

"After a year and a half of walking, walking, walking past the same old houses, same old sights, sometimes I think I can't go another block! But then I try to visualize some of the people who live inside those houses, many of them depressed, or invalids, or in wheel chairs. Suddenly I start praising God and picking up my pace.

Also, sometimes I think of the parties and "fun" in the old days. But then I remember the hangovers the next day, the headaches, the bloating, the fatigue. No, really, I don't want that life back.

"When I long for a banana split, I try to think about my car. I wouldn't think of tossing a cup of sugar into its gas tank! Why do it to my body?"

"There are rewards with perseverance. After awhile an olive begins to taste better than a piece of candy!" Shirley Cyr.

"When my biggest pair of pants began to split, it pulled me up short. Someone was trying to tell me something!" Dale Williams.

"When Larry and I arrived at Weimar I had someone take our picture in front of New Start Lodge. I labeled it "FAT, EXHAUSTED, AND SICK". At the end we had our picture taken, labeling it "SLIM, PEPPY, REVIVED AND THANKFUL!" Carol Kurtz.

As one perceptive staff member noticed, "There are no 100% failures in our alumni. Even following a 50%, 25% or 10% program will bring some measure of improved results."

A "SECOND TOUCH"

Just as the man, who saw imperfectly after Jesus first touched him, was fully restored after the Master's second touch, many Weimar alumni felt the need of a "second touch" experience.

"After I got better, it was hard to remember how sick I really had been. I began to slip here and there, and get weaker. But it's great to come back! Now I remember how bad I was. I needed this shot in the arm." Ed Maloney.

And, as another alumnus put it, "when I see others, who've failed as badly as I have, get up the courage to come back here for renewal, and see the sparks of hope and determination rekindled, it really inspires me. With God's help I won't give up either!"

WEIMAR WIT AND WISDOM:

"Twenty years ago I quit smoking, cold turkey. Fifteen years ago I quit drinking, cold turkey. Two years ago I came to Weimar and quit eating...! Bill Reynolds.

"Stopping any bad habit step by step is like clipping off your dog's tail a piece at a time," Dr. DeVine.

DESPERATION STATION:

Of the 325 guests and spouses that have gone through the H.E.C. program at Weimar to date, each has had his or her own unique experience. This is a sampling of those that came for the Alumni Homecoming.

Specific Gift Properties Deeded to Weimar

By Dick Winn

In recent weeks, two valuable pieces of property have been donated to Weimar Institute for the purpose of aiding specified aspects of Weimar's program. The Sacramento Inner City Services Foundation, and Boy's World, Inc., both non-profit charitable organizations, have decided to disband; and federal law requires that they place their assets with another charitable organization of a similar nature. In both cases, Weimar Institute was selected.

In 1974, a group of Seventh-day Adventist laymen in the Sacramento area — some of whom were also later to help start Weimar Institute — became convinced of the need to begin service ministries in the downtown area. As an informal group, they helped to direct and fund an active summer ministry in the Oak Park district in Sacramento. Later when their rented facility became available for sale, they formed a legal corporation to hold the title, and put forward the down payment. The facility was then rented to the Northern California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, which has operated a year-around program there for the last five years.

The property is adjacent to McClatchy Park, a lovely four-block island of green across from noted McGeorge School of Law. It consists of three versatile buildings, and a parking area. One large concrete block building comfortably holds chairs for more than 300 persons — for

Businessman Finds New Life

By Veronica Morrish

We first met him in a very informal way. One early April morning as my girl friend and I set out on our customary 5:30-a.m. walk toward the Mountain Misery trail, a silvery-haired, oriental H.E.C. guest made the request to join us since he was not yet familiar with any of our trails. We pleasantly acquiesced, and, as it turned out, our jovial, intensely-alert, walking companion proved to be one of the most unforgettable persons I have ever met.

Kris Assakul, President of the Ocean Group chain of Insurance companies and import-export businesses in Hong Kong, China and Bangkok, Thailand joined the health education program here on April 6. This was in response to the co-promptings of a friend, Sari Nee, former H.E.C. guest, and of Dr. Russell Standish, Medical Director of the Seventh-day Adventist Hospital in Bangkok.

Back home, in November of last year, Kris began to experience severe pain in the upper quadrant of his chest. He was hospitalized several times and more than once was placed under close observation in the Intensive Care Unit. As he amusingly puts it: "At this time I was given three diagnoses in regards to my condition: The heart specialist believed I had cardiac trouble; the internist predicted a stomach ulcer, and a third physician indicated that I was suffering the results of severe mental stress. I was more likely to accept the latter verdict because, besides being a heavy coffee drinker, my diet left much to be desired; and being responsible for 6,000 employees, I was under constant pressure to produce or to have them produce. My life sort of fluctuated between one meeting schedule and the next, without much time for relaxation, proper nutrition or physical activity."

As a result of his condition Kris was placed on medication and became, he thought, "a slave to barium." In time he felt generally weak and enervated. This was when he decided to come to Weimar for help.

At first this enthusiastic entrepreneur did not see how he could possibly leave his business for a whole month. But he came anyway, and was pleasantly surprised that nothing fell apart during his absence. In fact, his gains on both sides of the fence have been more than rewarding.

Arriving at Weimar, Kris was put through the preliminary treadmill tests, blood work, etc. Then he was placed on a restricted diet and the total exercise regime along with the trusty hydrotherapy treatments. He adhered faithfully to the simple, natural remedies and they proved effective. That morning when we first met him on the trail he remarked: "I suppose I am here to learn to walk all over again, but I have a lot of patience and I am willing to learn all I can." And learn he did.

Healthwise, Kris made great strides. He no longer experiences chest pain or the pressure he felt before. He was walking briskly five miles a day, just before he left here, and surprised himself not only with greater physical fitness but also with a better disposition toward life in general.

Dietwise, he absolutely loved the food, especially the whole grain-fruit-cereal-type breakfasts. He consciously absorbed the doctors' lectures which explained why certain things are not wholesome for the proper functioning of our body systems. And, being the gourmet cook he is, he quickly figured out, with Irma Chen's help, how to translate Weimar-style, oil-less cookery into Chinese dishes. So enthusiastic was he about this idea that he visited San Francisco one weekend during his stay here and gave a live demonstration to several of his relatives on the "how" of the new way of cooking he discovered. Not only that, but a few days before the session ended Kris and his wife prepared a full-course Weimar-style Chinese meal for H.E.C. staff and guests; and I am told it was absolutely delectable!

Kris' gains here were not only physical but spiritual as well. His only exposure to religion, previous to coming to Weimar, was six years of Scripture in high school, of which he remembers little. He describes his experience this way: "I was a worldly, successful businessman with no thoughts of religion or of God. I felt no need to pray in the past 32 years and had no awareness of faith in anything spiritual. But going through this program has pointed out to me the absolute necessity to have faith in something other than money and possessions; to take time to pray and to study God's Word."

Asked what his personal reactions to the total Weimar program were, Kris replied in one word: "Positive!" He enjoyed not only the warmth of the lodge's fireplace but especially loved the evening "family" times, the singing, and the personalized loving care that people gave to him. It seemed to him as if he was gaining new knowledge every moment. He strongly indicated that whereas before his personal emphasis was on money, his new emphasis would now be on love, faith, confidence, sympathy, and health. Says Kris: "Before, I was absorbed with work, finances, economic stability and self-interest. Now, I will concentrate on better health for my employees, a better life for my people, and personal joy in service."

A man of deep thought and far reaching goals, Kris has strong convictions about looking into the possibility of starting a Weimar-type program in Thailand. Especially geared toward his employees and policyholders to begin with, he hopes to include others later on.

Kris Assakul is enthusiastic to share what he has learned in the areas of health, diet and spiritual growth. In summarizing the way he feels about what happened to him at Weimar, Kris very emphatically states, "You folks shouldn't call this program at Weimar 'NEW START' you should call it NEW LIFE!"

Put On the Brakes, Conductor!

*Put on the brakes, conductor,
The journey's almost o'er:
The way's been rough and weary
And filled with trials sore.*

*The baggage load was heavy
Cluttered with excessive freight
Which slowed us on our journey
And made us nearly late.*

*But on the journey we were blessed:
We stopped at "Weimar Station";
And there by God's sweet providence
Were filled with inspiration.*

*We rid ourselves of excess baggage-
The sweets, the salt, the fat,
And all the other goodies
That put us on our back.*

*So now we leave the station
Peering toward the Pearly Gates
Because our blessed Saviour
There so patiently waits.*

*So let us sing His praises,
Let us tell them far and near;
And bring to those who need it
God's hope and heavenly cheer.*

*Put on the brakes, conductor!
We're nearing journey's end;
We're near those city limits
Where we'll meet our greatest Friend.*

Recessions and Possessions

By Kent Dickinson

For many months now a recession has been expected by those who follow to any degree the economic forecasts. The exact timing, duration or intensity is not agreed upon by economists; and some had predicted the beginning much earlier than events have shown to be the case. However, more recently, with reduced auto purchases and the lay-off of thousands of auto workers (each job so discontinued is said to adversely affect four others) and the closing of other plants, it is believed a recession has now begun.

To those whose jobs and incomes are secure, this may seem of but passing interest. But to the person who is out of work, and to affected families, the recession takes on the aspects of idleness and curtailment, of uncertainty, and fear of the future.

With continuing economic uncertainties how then should the thoughtful and prudent Christian plan and provide for the future, to assure for himself and his family a reasonable reserve in the event of job loss, sickness, accident or other unforeseen trial or reverse? How can provision for future family needs harmonize with the gospel admonition to "go...sell...give and come and follow Me" as Jesus instructed the rich young ruler? (See Luke 18:18-25)

Is not the answer found in trusting God while diligently serving Him?—Not as a means of obtaining His protection and provision but as a result of our deep gratitude to Him? His constant care for us and willingness to fulfill His promises to us when we ask in faith and expect great things from Him are often emphasized in Scripture.

Of the patriarch Abraham it is written, "Abraham had no possession in the earth, no, not so much as to set his foot on! He possessed great substance, and he used it to the glory of God and the good of his fellow-men; but he did not look upon this world as his home...His sole possession in the land of promise was that rock-hewn tomb in the cave of Machpelah." Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 169

John Wesley once declared, "If I leave behind me ten pounds,—above my debts and my books, or what may happen to be due on account of them,—you and all mankind bear witness against me, that I lived and died a thief and a robber." Affectionately Yours, p. 225

His disdain for the accumulation of wealth is evidenced in a biographical note that states he died leaving behind a silver teapot, two silver spoons, a well-worn frock coat, and the Methodist Church.

The wise man, Solomon, has declared in Proverbs 28:20, "...the upright shall have good things in possession." What good things do they possess? Would they not include the intangible yet enduring substances of faith, hope and charity as well as the many other virtues and assurances promised to those who serve God with a pure heart?

It is interesting to note that, "The Bible does not condemn the rich man because he is rich; it does not declare the acquisition of wealth to be a sin, nor does it say that money is the root of all evil. On the contrary, the Scriptures state that it is God who gives the power to get wealth...The Scripture teaches that wealth is a dangerous possession only when placed in competition with the immortal treasure...It is the love of money that the Word of God denounces as the root of all evil...How many who have in adversity remained true to God, have fallen under the glittering allurements of prosperity." Counsels on Stewardship, pp. 138, 139

Should we, then, provide for our future personal and family needs? The answer is a most assuring, yes! "Every week a portion of your wages should be reserved and in no case touched unless suffering actual want, or to render back to the Giver in offerings to God." Adventist Home, p. 396

Further counsel from Ellen G. White declares, "Would you make your property secure? Place it in the hand that bears the nail print of the crucifixion...Would you enjoy your substance? Then use it for the blessing of the suffering." Testimonies for the Church, Vol. 9, p. 51 (The chapter "Freely Ye have Received," pages 49-60 is very worthwhile reading.)

"If we have prosperity in our secular business, it is because God blesses us. A part of this income is to be devoted to the poor, and a large portion to be applied to the cause of God. When that which God claims is rendered to Him, the remainder will be sanctified and blessed to our own use." Testimonies for the Church, Vol. 4, p. 477

When rightly understood and graciously accepted for their intended purpose, both adversity and prosperity will serve to refine the dross from our characters. Notice this statement: "However large, however small the possessions of any individual, let him remember that it is his only in trust. For

WEIMAR INSTITUTE

Weimar Institute is a multi-phased ministry whose keynote is SERVICE. Working in harmony with the basic tenets of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, the Institute is comprised of physicians, educators and other laymen. Our primary goal is to uplift God's character as the One who restores His image in His people on earth. Weimar Institute ministers to the physical, the mental and the spiritual aspects of humanity. Relying solely upon the free gift of the righteousness of God revealed in the Person of Jesus Christ, the Institute openly confesses that no function of its ministry can detract from the reality of that One Source of salvation. Rather, we desire that His righteousness shall become more believable to others because of this service to which we ourselves have been called. (2 Tim. 1:9, Eph. 2:9-10)

Scholarship Opportunities

Weimar College is still offering scholarship opportunities for a selected group of freshman students for the 1980-81 school year. Such students may apply to work in one of the various industries at Weimar Institute during the summer commencing about the middle of June. Such students will be provided board and lodging during the summer and also earn a $1,000 scholarship towards the $3,000 yearly tuition and board fee of the 1980-81 school year.

The conditions of acceptance in the scholarship program are as follows:

1. The individual be accepted as a student for the 1980-81 year.
2. That he or she works a minimum of 480 hours during the summer.

3. There is a limit to the number of such scholarship opportunities that are available, and in general, opportunity will be given to those who apply earliest.

There is also opportunity to earn some toward the college financial needs during the Christmas and the spring vacation. The work education and scholarship program is under the directorship of Dr. John Sipkens and any specific questions relating to it may be addressed to him at Weimar Institute. Now is the time to apply, if the Lord may be leading you to Weimar College for the next Academic school year. The school offers majors in Health Education, Elementary Education, Secondary Education, Metropolitan Ministry, Agriculture and Religion. And it is possible to undertake the first and possibly the second year of courses whose major is not offered at Weimar College. There are also a limited number of opportunities available for graduates in other areas who would like to spend a quarter to a year at Weimar learning some of the distinctive patterns of work/study and Outreach Ministry which are characteristic of the Weimar College program.

All such inquiries should be addressed to the Dean, Weimar College, Box A, Weimar, California 95736.

Exercise That Lasts

By Jay Neil, M.D.

Long term compliance—that is the bottom line in all programs which seek to modify life-style factors and enhance health. Success is absolutely parallel to compliance. Have the new and modified patterns become flourishing habits, engrafted into one's personal trunk and root system? Few will deny that the hurdle is usually motivational rather than technical. Is there, then, a special formula to motivate?—to motivate the intemperate to temperance, the indolent to industry, the inactive to activity?

Surely we have much to learn in winning the habitually under-exercised into the fulltime, lifelong, vibrant membership of the regularly-exercised. I am fully persuaded, however, that some of the most useful tools available in this coaxing effort lie in useful manual labor. Now please stick with me just a little before turning off because this is beginning to sound like a parental harangue lauding the many virtues of work. No one hated more than I, at ten, hoeing gubers (peanuts) all day long under the humid Tennessee sun. If you still harbor a bit of aversion to anything that even sounds like work, consider the possibility that your early conditioning experiences may have stolen from you one of the greatest blessings a wise Creator has given fallen man: "...for thy sake...in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread". Gen. 3:17,19.

There is an interesting observation I've made more than once in our garden therapy here at Weimar. Often, those initially the most adamantly opposed to this kind of therapy (because of presumed or imagined dislike) become its most ardent promoters and enthusiasts by session's end.

run out of solutions. There was no place left to go for help. The Lord literally plucked me out of Kansas and landed me at Weimar. That was 9 months ago. I've lost 40 lbs., my diabetes is well controlled, and I've had a total physical and spiritual rebirth. THANK YOU!" Ver-na Froese

"I had tried everything. Help had proved only temporary. I arrived at Weimar puffy, fat, with daily headaches, insomnia, and felt lousy all the time. It's been 18 months since my group went through the program. All those symptoms are gone. I feel absolutely great!" Shirley Cyr

"I was the first patient to arrive in the first class Weimar conducted. I was very nearly the last. My bypass had plugged up and I

Realizing, then, that long term compliance begins by a convincing invitation to personal experience I would like to share with you, our readers, a few practical suggestions—tips gleaned from our experience on how you can make manual labor a meaningful therapeutic tool.

May I remind you first that few, if any, of our illnesses are purely physical, but rather a complex interplay of mental, spiritual and physical factors. Useful manual labor stands tall as an agent of healing in all of these areas. It reaches the whole man.

Therefore for maximum therapeutic benefit and "addictive" effect consider the following "how to's" of manual labor:

1. WORK WITH SOMETHING LIVING AND GROWING

Life begets life. Work with plants and/or animals (God-made growth rather than man-made growth.)

2. SELECT PROJECTS THAT CAN BE COMPLETED IN A SHORT TIME

Select a project that will take a few days maximum. The therapeutic benefit is proportional to the number of projects completed, not the number begun. As the "addiction" gets stronger, the projects can become longer.

3. CHOOSE PROJECTS WITH VISIBLE RESULTS AND KEEP RESULTS IN VIEW, AT LEAST MENTALLY

These may be short term results such as one or two clean rows of English peas. Or they may be long term results like eating those luscious peas. Or having increased backpacking range. Or increased exercise tolerance. Aesthetic was in constant pain. Two university medical centers had offered me no hope. My first few days and nights at Weimar were spent on oxygen and demerol shots. It seemed I was too late to benefit from the wonderful natural remedies. But the staff relied on the Best One, and knelt around my bed, putting my life in God's hands. From that moment I began to improve. Now, two years later, I can walk 7 miles a day, and my pain is gone. My heart is full of praise and gratitude for this place." Bill Barclay

POINTS TO PONDER:

"I can't help noticing that the more totally a person participates in the program at Weimar, the better he is at the end." Ben Zwanzig

"Words can't express what beautification goals are also long range, and very therapeutic.

4. WORK WITH SOMEONE (INTERESTING)

Work with your spouse, children, friend, or estranged brother. Communication, whether silent or verbal, is more uncluttered and permeative. It is here that brotherhood puts on clothes.

5. MASTER REPETITION

Yes, even repetition need not master you, but may be mastered. Design and control repetition for maximum yield, and for personal goals. Useful, goal directed repetition, rather than being drudgery, may be diversional re-creation of the highest order. Try developing a rhythm while you peel those peaches for the canning jar. Rhythm and repetition allow for a certain type of healthy mental coasting which defuses the overwhelming tensions of the modern day maze.

6. DO MANUAL "LABOR OF LOVE" FOR SOMEONE WHO IS UNABLE TO DO FOR THEMSELVES (OR FOR YOU)

Your only pay is their gratitude (you thought)! Suddenly you discover herein lies highly potent medicine, a miracle drug by any measure.

There you have them. If you are disappointed, expecting a more mechanical, quantified prescription (such as: How many strokes of the buck saw on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday) remember, quantity is born and dies in the bosom of quality. For a quality life style, with long-term compliance, may I recommend to you useful manual labor! It is a viable alternative to pedal machines and racquets. Try it (again); you'll like it!

25 days at Weimar has done for people." Pearl Hoppe.

"When people ask me if I'm still on the Weimar diet, I tell them, 'No, I'm still on God's diet.'" Shirley Cyr.

"I came to Weimar wanting help for my physical heart, not even knowing I needed help for my other one, my spiritual heart." Ray Lindgren

"Because I've been at Weimar, I'm a stronger man in the Lord. I didn't realize I needed this! All I can say is 'God, how great Thou art!'" (Elder Larry Kurtz followed this testimony by a beautiful vocal rendition of "The Love of God")

Commented staff member Jay Neil, M.D., after listening to all the personal testimonies, "the doctors at Weimar Institute must be the richest in all the world."

Garden with a friend! The fruits will be twice as rewarding.

H.E.C. ALUMNI CORNER

Dear Alumni,

As the time of our departure draws near we would like to share with you some of the blessings our Weimar experience has brought. It hardly seems possible that it has been nearly a year since Amelda, Jay Jr., Joel, June and I moved temporarily into Westcott Hall to begin this adventure. The family closeness we felt in that single room (as each in his own bed and after lights were out, we could rehearse the day's events) was a treasured experience. (Later we moved into our larger mobile home.)

Many looking on from the outside, fear that institutional life, such as Weimar's, might disrupt the family unit. Our experience has been just the reverse. In fact, the blessing we rank the highest in our Weimar experience has been the spiritual growth and stability that many have observed in our three teenagers. And this brings increased family stability and closeness. The daily opportunity to apply spiritual perspectives to the routine problems that face us, in the nurturing media of the larger H.E.C. and Weimar family, has also been priceless.

We could enumerate so many benefits. Another blessing that stands out in bold relief has come through many of you. We have seen such simple health principles, taken seriously, bring such profound results. You have demonstrated, as we have watched your progress, just how well it works. We still stand in amazement and say, Praise the Lord!

Many of you know we will be branching out from Weimar in June to develop a similar health education program in Chunky, Mississippi. The Lord has prepared an ideal facility for just such a work. In many providential ways He is bringing together a team of young health professionals dedicated to the same vision that Weimar has put into practical reality. We are so grateful for our experience here. We desire your prayers for this, another pioneer venture. If you would like us to keep you posted from time to time, please drop us a line. Our address is: Pine Forest Sanitarium and Hospital, Chunky, Mississippi, 39323. You, our faithful Weimar H.E.C. alumni, we will continue to remember and pray for. Thank you for the many ways in which you have blessed each of us.

With love,
Dr. Jay Neil and family.

My Father's Business

By Eric W. Hon

No human thought can possibly comprehend the infinite love and concern that the Father and the Son have for the one lost world in Their vast creation. Nor can the human mind grasp the immeasurable value heaven places on just one soul. Only as the believer enters into partnership with God with the Holy Spirit illuminating his mind, is it possible in some measure for man to appreciate the sacrifice made in his behalf.

In divine partnership with God, Jesus declared early in life that He must be about His Father's business. (Luke 2:49) And this business was PEOPLE. The whole object of redemption was the restoration of man in the divine image so that once again he would reflect the character of God. (See Education p. 15, 16.)

With this ever in mind, Jesus revealed the character of God in His ministry. For the Saviour's heart lived the broader deeper, purpose of the plan of redemption.

"But the plan of redemption had a yet broader and deeper purpose than the salvation of man. It was not for this alone that Christ came to earth; it was not merely that the inhabitants of this little world might regard the law of God as it should be regarded; but it was to vindicate the character of God before the universe. To this result of His great sacrifice — its influence upon the intelligences of other worlds, as well as upon men — the Saviour looked forward when just before his crucifixion He said: 'Now is the judgment of this world; now shall the prince of this world be cast out. And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me.' The act of Christ in dying for the salvation of man would not only make heaven accessible to men, but before all the universe it would justify God and His Son in Their dealing with the rebellion of Satan. It would establish the perpetuity of the law of God, and would reveal the nature and results of sin." (Patriarchs and Prophets, pp. 68, 69).

Viewed in this perspective, the witness of every believer is a revelation of God's character, and reaches far beyond the boundaries of this world. Just as the broader and deeper purpose of the plan of salvation was ever in the Saviour's mind, so should it be in every believer's mind.

Jesus was constant in this purpose of vindicating the character of His Father. Teaching, preaching and healing, He became personally involved with human need. He saw and was moved with compassion. (Matt. 9:35, 36). His was a ministry of empathy, bringing joy to untold multitudes. And in His commission to the twelve, and the seventy, and to believers of all time, it is this principle of ministry that He endorsed.

Go, see, and be moved with compassion. There is no substitute for personal involvement. For while we carry with us a message of the most exalted, yet most simple theme — that of the free gift of salvation — it will never meet the demands of the great controversy unless we ourselves are willing to become a part of the demonstration of God's love and righteousness.

"To every one who becomes a partaker of His grace, the Lord appoints a work for others. Individually we are to stand in our lot and place, saying, 'Here am I, send me.' Upon the minister of the Word, the missionary nurse, the Christian physician, the individual Christian, whether he be merchant or farmer, professional or mechanic, — the responsibility rests upon all. It is our work to reveal to men the gospel of their salvation. Every enterprise in which we engage should be a means to this end." (Ministry of Healing, p. 148 (Emphasis supplied).

In partnership with the Father and Son, relying upon divine resources alone, the "business" of leading people back into relationship with God will become all-consuming. And while we will still live full lives, pursuing our profession or business, or whatever our hands find to do, all will be done with much more constructive and rewarding results. We will be involved in forming relationships that stretch into eternity.

Jesus said, "My Father's business". It is our business too. It is time to share the great truths of salvation through the avenue of loving ministry — to reveal God's character. In joint partnership with heavenly forces there is no greater business in which we can be engaged: People for the eternal kingdom!

GIFT PROPERTIES

large seminars and meetings. A 21-room office complex has been approved as a child and infant care center. And a recently refurbished Victorian-style home is used for offices and services to the elderly.

In January of this year, the Foundation decided that another group may be better equipped to carry its responsibilities. They selected Weimar Institute because of its deep-rooted interest in city ministry, and its need for a training center for its college majors in Metropolitan Ministries. The legal transfer of the property has now been completed. The mutually-agreed terms for the transfer stipulate that the net assets of the property be used by Weimar to conduct appropriate forms of city ministry in the Sacramento area. Weimar's Board and Administrative Committee are studying ways to best fulfill this challenge.

More than a dozen years ago, a man with an active compassion for the troubled young boys decided to put his love into action. Mr. Carl Anderson formed Boy's World, Inc., and on a 100-acre tract of Sierra foothills land near Dobbins, California, established a rural home for their care and education. Through the years, scores of young boys have received just the help they needed at Boy's World.

Recently, however, it has become increasingly difficult to obtain the qualified staff to handle such demanding work; and some have questioned the effectiveness of having only troubled young boys together in one facility. And so the corporation decided to transfer their assets and their responsibilities to another group. Several organizations and individuals were asked to submit proposals to Boy's World, indicating how they would use the assets.

The administration at Weimar saw this as an opportunity to implement a much-needed phase of our own program: beginning a very small boarding academy. Such a school would provide teacher training facilities for our secondary education majors, schooling for the high school aged staff children, and a service to families interested in Weimar's educational philosophy. This concept was explained to the Boy's World Board in a written proposal.

The Boy's World leadership believed this could be an excellent way to continue their interest in young people — though expanded to include both female and male, stable as well as troubled. Weimar's offer was selected, and the property given with the understanding that it could be sold, and the proceeds used to build a new, small, and very unique boarding academy at Weimar. A former Boy's World member, Mr. Verlin Leer, has been named to the Weimar staff for the purpose of heading the development of this new phase.

The agreement which accompanies each of these two timely gifts stipulates that the funds are not to be used by Weimar for current debts or operations, but are to be used exclusively for beginning these new phases. As such, they are of great value in helping the Institute achieve its stated goals, but can not be counted toward its debt reduction drive (see diagram, page 7). Future issues of the Bulletin will report on the progress of both the city ministry, and the academy. Meanwhile, please continue to join with us in prayer for the wisdom and resources to move into these two opening privileges.

Black Hills Center Seminar Schedule 1980

Listed below are the special seminars sponsored by Weimar's "sister" institution in South Dakota. These retreats are planned to bring into focus current issues and trends affecting the church, its families, and its mission. The goal is to stimulate growth and understanding, and to clarify in each person's mind the will of God for him.

July 13-19 "Family Lifestyle Change Seminar." Dr. Beltz, Dr. Wiltse and other BHHEC staff. Emphasis on the lifestyle of the entire family, including nutrition, spiritual leadership, exercise, and relationships.

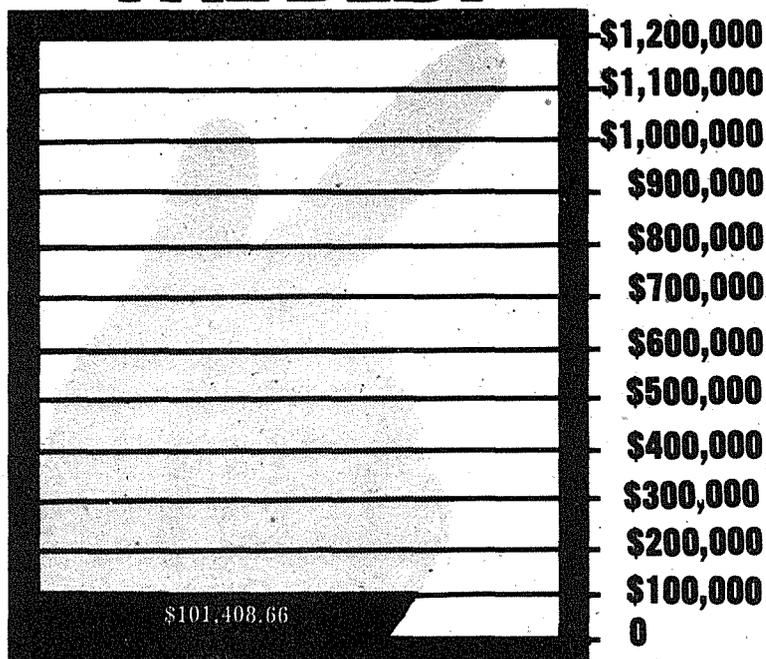

August 15-17 "Workstudy and Early Childhood Education." Raymond and Dorothy Moore. The remarkable advantages of following God's plan in balanced education and in school entrance age.

August 30-31 "Spiritual Gifts." Bill Liversidge. An intense seminar on the crucial role of spiritual gifts in the life of the church and its members.

September 14 "Soil Composition and Food Quality," Merritt Horning, M.D. A one-day seminar on field crops, intensive row crops, and hot house gardening that will stimulate surprising new directions.

Seminars are held in the Black Hills Health and Education Center in the beautiful Black Hills of South Dakota. Retreats feature superb natural meals, and opportunity to explore many delightful nature trails. Advance reservations are necessary to preserve a space. For more information, write to Black Hills Health and Education Center, Box 1, Hermosa, South Dakota 57755, or call (605) 255-4579 or (605) 343-3264.

HELP CANCEL THE DEBT

Work-Study Seminar

July 21-Aug. 8

Credit: Upper Division and Graduate, Pacific Union College. Teachers: Dr. Thomas Geraty (Director); Dr. Raymond Moore; Dr. Fred Riley; Dr. John Sipkens; and guest teachers with successful experiences in work-study.

Two west-coast colleges, Weimar College and Pacific Union College, are collaborating to present a three-week work experience education seminar at the campus of Weimar College. It is especially designed for school principals, board members, teachers and parents as well as conference administrators.

The course will feature the philosophy, development, implementation, and evaluation of programs of balanced work and study which embrace an entire school. The concept assumes that all teachers and students are involved in an equal devotion to work and to study. Many related topics will be covered, such as: essentials of faith, finances, curriculum, methods, resources in teaching character traits and skill objectives. The course is based on the historic SDA philosophy of harmonious three-fold educational development (mental, physical, spiritual). Each seminar student will be involved in a daily work program with the teachers. A comprehensive course outline detailing more than 25 related topics will guide the students during the time of study.

Course Requirements

Class hours	60 hours
Laboratory	60 hours
Convocation	15 hours
	135 hours

Method

Lecture-discussion-research with laboratory experience in the fields and shops.

Every student will prepare and present a paper, outlining in implementable detail the type and level of work-study program in which he will most likely be involved, accounting for the variables of size, climate, finances, facilities, etc.

Costs:

For full three-week program — Room, board, tuition — $420.00.

For those who cannot participate for the full three weeks, the cost will be pro-rated.

Applications:

Applications should be made to the Dean of Weimar College, immediately, with an application fee of $10.00.

Those needing transportation from bus or air terminals, should also make prior arrangements with the Dean.

"I am pleased with your decision to retire Weimar's mortgage indebtedness by the end of this year, and as a loyal friend of Weimar I plan to do my part. Accordingly, a check is enclosed."

Reader, Pope Valley CA

"I am sure the Lord will enable me to send you more money before the year is up. I'm putting your letter in my bill file to remind me. May God bless your work."

Reader, Battle Ground WA

"I had to work two Sabbaths at private duty nursing. Enclosed is a check. God bless you."

Reader, Mountain View CA

"As things look, I cannot afford to give, but I'm stepping out in faith that God will provide so that I can give to help you do His will."

Reader, Independence OR

"I praise the Lord for the workings of His providence! Many months ago I was impressed by the Lord to start putting aside a small sum of money each week — I knew not what for. During the ensuing months I endeavored many times to get this money into the self-supporting work in some way. However, each time I tried the Lord seemed to block the way. Finally I received your letter and it was as the voice of God to my soul. I recognized instantly the purpose for which I had been saving. May the Lord bless abundantly these means, though they be small. And may God bless you in your work at Weimar."

Reader, Brooklyn WI

"This $300 is a rebate on my estimated income tax."

Reader, Clarkston WA

"I am a member of the Weimar 'family', having been a H.E.C. guest not long ago. I want to help what I can to cancel your debt by sending my contribution each month.

"I enjoyed my stay very much. The Christian spirit of all the staff members I shall never forget. I am endeavoring to carry on the life-giving principles I learned while with you."

Reader, Jamestown CA

"I don't want to commit myself to a pledge, but will send funds, as I am able, in memory of my 3 yr. old son who passed away in February of Leukemia."

Reader, Benicia CA

"I am a student praying for your work. I wish I could send more."

Reader, Loma Linda CA

"This is my income tax return." (several hundred dollars)

Reader, St. Helena CA

"Enclosed is my monthly check which is to help pay the mortgage. My prayer is that you've found many who responded to your request. I know you are doing good work and the Lord will bless you."

Reader, Maine

"I'm a Med student already over $20,000 in debt. But I am enclosing $15. Wish I could help more."

Reader, Loma Linda CA

"So many requests come for help. I was praying to know to whom I should send this money. I opened your letter today and am glad to help what I can."

Reader, Palo Alto CA

"Please accept this gift and apply it to the mortgage for the institute. The Lord provided this unexpectedly! I asked Him to make this monthly help to you possible, and thus far He has provided, sometimes miraculously, as He did this month.

I praise Him that He has been so good to provide, not only for mine and my family's needs, but also for many others. He has allowed me to be able to help through His goodness to me!

May God continue to bless the medical ministry training work there. And, may we all be ready for His coming."

New Testament Stories Relived

Never Man Spake Like This Man*

By Veronica Morrish

When we first met Jesus of Nazareth we just couldn't put Him and the atrocities, of which he was accused, together.

We thought that certainly the priests and rulers had made a mistake in sending us on this urgent assignment to arrest a psuedo prophet, a insurrectionist, a disturber of the Roman peace.

Before we could even verify that He was teaching "strange" things, His profound discourse miraculously elevated our mundane thoughts far above earthly concepts and concerns. Not only did we witness physical and spiritual restoration among His followers there, but we also heard Him declare, with a kind of authority we had never known before: "If any man thirst, let him come unto Me and drink...He that believeth on Me, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water."¹ Such power and supply the richest Roman empire could not muster. Obviously He was not only in tune with Supernatural Strength, but He Himself was a partaker of a higher reservoir of life of which He was extremely willing to impart to frail, believing men.

There was something else which we noticed too. Although He spoke on such lofty themes, His gentle demeanor and pleasant bearing attracted little children to His side, and simple fisher-folk did not seem to feel uncomfortable in His presence.

It wasn't long before we understood why the very things about Jesus that had blown away all stereotypes, had made Him not only an illustrious Teacher, but a Reader of men's hearts, a Supplier of people's soul needs.

Initially we merely thought of lingering near to catch something that might be turned against Him. But as we listened, the purpose for which we had come was completely forgotten. We stood as men entranced.

It was quite atypical for hardened Roman officers to be thus captivated by the speech of a Jewish Rabbi. But this man was different. We noted something that the priests and rulers would not see — humanity flooded with the glory of divinity. He revealed Himself to our souls, and there were no doubts in our minds that He was a prophet, Yea, more than that even! He was the Son of God — the Savior of the world.

We had heard Him ourselves. We were impressed by His words, filled with awe at His stately divine bearing, and completely helpless to do anything else but to return to the priests — empty-handed, but soul-filled.

Naturally, those who sent us there were madly disappointed that we had returned without Him. In angry desperation they blurted out their frustrated query:

"Why have ye not brought Him?"²

Only lingering thoughts of all that we had seen and heard that day filled our minds, and we solemnly replied: "Never man spake like this man."²

How ridiculous! They couldn't understand it. Utterly enraged that even the instruments of the law should be thus influenced by the hated Galilean, they cried out: "Are ye also deceived? Have any of the rulers of the Pharisees believed on

Him?"⁴

But somehow those questions were not important now. We knew that we could not estimate truth by the numbers or by the titles of people who accepted it. The choice was up to us. Two options remained: to accept or reject this light which we certainly could not ignore.
